

Omega provides staff to offshore project in the Adriatic

Omega Resource Group plc are providing staff to one of the world's leading insulation providers. The client was awarded the main insulation contract on Adriatic LNG and is the world's largest independent insulation company, providing an entire range of services across heat, cold, noise and fire protection and operates in five main business areas: Industry, Offshore, Shipbuilding, Construction and Aerospace.

The client sought the assistance of Omega Resource Group plc as the number of workers required rapidly increased. Omega were able to react quickly, providing teams of experienced Cryogenic Thermal Insulators to work offshore supported by multi-lingual team leaders. Additionally Omega have supplied Insulation Supervisors, QA/QC Supervisors and Health & Safety Officers to the project. In total Omega have supplied over 100 personnel, all experienced trades people and managers.

Omega have brought an excellent support network to the project; organising all offshore training, mobilisation and transportation of the workers, shift rotations, timesheets and payroll services in what is a logistically challenging environment.
