

Omega provides staff for a UN Peacekeeping mission in Africa

Omega Resource Group plc has recently provided a team of 18 Fuel Handling Specialist to assist a United Nations Peacekeeping and Humanitarian mission in Africa. Our client was awarded the main contract to provide Petroleum & Jet Aviation bulk fuel handling to the Peacekeeping mission in Chad. The Fuel specialist will be tasked to build and manage eight new green field fuel installation depots at various locations across the country.

This unique project required Omega Resource Group to source, select and interview candidates from locations across the world such as Afghanistan, Iraq, South Africa and the Far East. The majority of candidates were working within secure military bases which had limited communication access to the UK. Even with these difficulties Omega Resource Group provided a seamless recruitment solution to our Client, which allowed them to concentrate on delivering their contract obligations.

As part of our solution Omega organised all medicals, overseas inoculations, flights, and visas for Chad.
